Green Learning @ SEHC

It's Learn @ Work Week and SEHC is celebrating green learning with @YourSide Colleague!

How is learning online green?

- Traditional in-class courses often involve hand-outs, textbooks, and paper for taking notes. By using a course in @YourSide Colleague for education, you can access all the resources you need online without using a single piece of paper.
- Travelling to attend in-class courses often requires driving your car, releasing harmful emissions. When you take a course online, you don't even have to leave your home or office!

There are courses on @YourSide Colleague available to all staff, so log in today to start your green learning journey!

Learn for Yourself

In recognition of Learn@Work Week, the E-Learning team has made the Learn For Yourself series in @YourSide Colleague® (aYSC) more accessible to you! The Learn for Yourself Series, written by Harry Van Bommel, can now be found directly on your course list when you log in to aYSC.

The Learn For Yourself series has been developed to help enhance your communication, leadership and supervision, learning and personal growth skills and to provide you with further references and ideas to continue your personal and professional development.

Learning topics in this course include:

- Conflict resolution
- Negotiation skills
- Career planning
- Time management
- Researching and writing reports and papers
- Communication skills

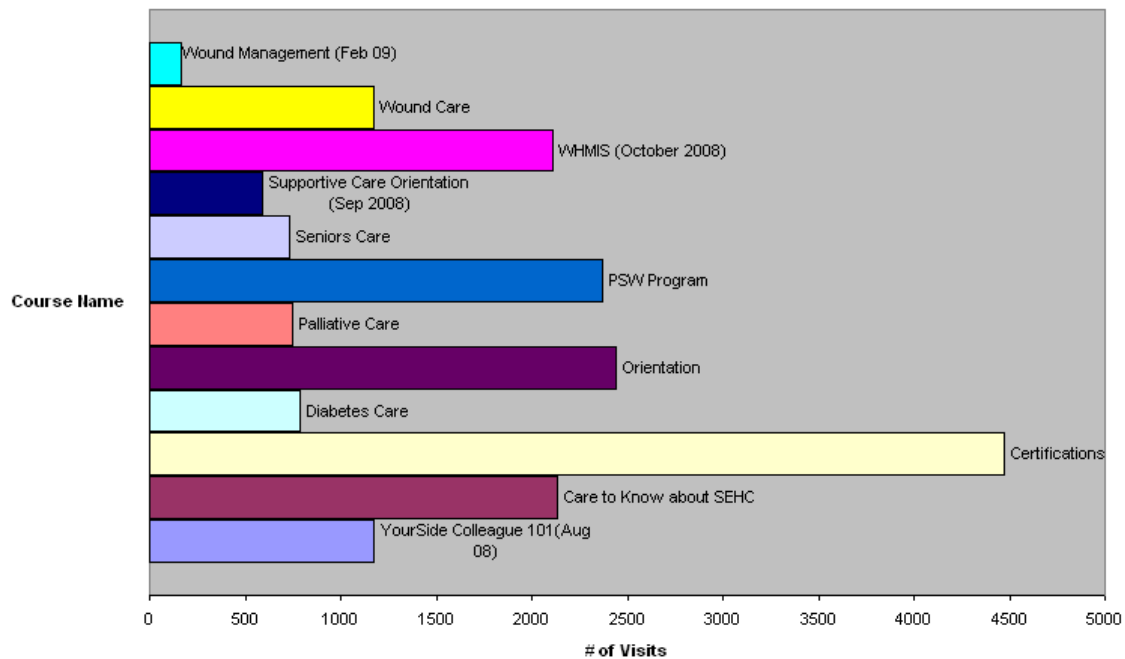

Get started today! Log in and choose the topic that best suits you!
